EVEN AS WE SEND this catalog off to you, the book industry is undergoing a tremendous change — from being a community-based network of independent and specialty bookstores to one that is increasingly dominated by chain bookstores and discounters.

If we are to have a diversity of ideas and images available to us as readers, then we need many different kinds of bookstores, not just a few national chains, to make the widest range of books available to the reading public.

Over the next few years the book-buying public will vote with its book-dollars for the kinds of bookstores and the range of ideas that will be available in the decades to come.

We encourage you to use your shopping power to vote — as often as you can — for feminist and other independent bookstores.

Please see page 35 for information on how to order the books in this catalog. A list of feminist bookstores begins on page 32.

Authors who would like to join other writers in signing a pledge to support feminist and other independent bookstores, please send a SASE to Feminist Writers Pledge, PO Box 882554, San Francisco, CA 94188.

REEL WOMEN: The World of Women Who Fish

LYLA FOGGIA

Nineteen million American women fished last year — over a million more than the year before. In Reel Women, Lyla Foggia tells the complete story of fisherwomen for the first time. She profiles scores of women fly, big-game saltwater, and bass anglers, who have steadily broken down the barriers of this last frontier.

UPPITY WOMEN OF ANCIENT TIMES

VICKI LEON

In the tradition of Wild Women, this collection highlights 150 famous women of antiquity in an accessible, fun format. Profiled women include pyramid builders, poets, physicians, athletes, power brokers, and more. Full of piquant details on sex, sports, madness, celebrities, gossip, and gore, Uppity Women also points out the surprising parallels between ancient cultures and our own.

BARREN IN THE PROMISED LAND

ELAINE TYLER MAY

Why have Americans become so preoccupied with their own reproductive fates — and everyone else's? This first history of childlessness covers everything from the association of barrenness with sin and witchcraft in colonial times to the radical changes promised but not fulfilled by today's technological advances. "Thought-provoking and emotionally wrenching."

DAUGHTERS OF THE GODDESS: The Women Saints of India

LINDA JOHNSEN

The search for the feminine face of God leads to six remarkable contemporary women regarded as divine incarnations. In their lives we glimpse a divinity more alive, more human, and more dynamic than we dared hope for. Here are goddesses, mother figures, and adepts of mystery. In this landmark work, Johnsen brings goddess worship out of ancient history and into the twentieth century.

RACE, GENDER, and POWER in AMERICA

Edited by Anita Faye Hill and
Emma Coleman Jordan

RACE, GENDER, AND POWER IN AMERICA

EDITED BY ANITA FAYE HILL AND EMMA COLEMAN JORDAN

These penetrating essays examine the context and consequences of the Anita Hill-Clarence Thomas hearings and include the first published essay on the episode by Hill herself. Contributors include Congresswoman Eleanor Holmes Norton, Anna Deavere Smith, Chief Judge Emeritus A. Leon Higgenbotham Jr., Hill's legal defense team, and Orlando Patterson. Essential reading for anyone interested in the volatile politics of race and gender in America.
