Ta-Dum! Here comes #2! I still have my slippy-margin typewriter, but I have a lot less fear than before (of stencils) and a new resolution to correct typos in important places. Sorry about the messt ordering information last time. Contents of the newsletter are as follows:

- Letters to the newsletter
- More News
- Booklists
  - Native American Women
  - Black Women
  - Young Women
- New Titles
- From André and Carol to you....

Dear Carol and Feminist Bookstore Newsletter Women;
 We Receiced a copy of your first newsletter and want to say quickly and simply that we think it's a wonderful start to a wonderful idea. We like the nice, informal easy style as a way of giving valuable information to feminst bookstores. It's much nicer to be sharing than competing, needless to say. We defininitely want to stay on your mailing list and hope that we can contribute some way in the future.

Many thinaks
 Betsy & Francine
 the 31st Street Bookstore,
 Baltimore, MD.

Dear Sisters,
 Had to tell you we love you! Newsletter great! ....Name? Why not Women in Print or Fem. Bookstores Newsletter. We're moving! Betty, Alternative booksellers, reading

Sisters-
 Received the FBN yesterday and was really pleased/overjoyed---"Cooperation rather than competition"---you ARE making another dream come true.

Enclosed in an article about WOMANSPLACE I wrote for local feminist newspaper (See NEWS section-C)....it's the only bookstore I know of (feminist or otherwise) that's started on $75.00. Also enclosed is a copy of our mail order booklist, aimed at the lesbian audience. Please read it, pass it on (write for a copy? C.)... We started the mail order thing as a service to isolated (and closet) lesbians--and have been more than a little amazed at its mushrooming growth. Part of the reason... is that we don't charge anything for the booklist--we absorb the printing & postage costs. (Although a future ad in MS classified will ask people to send a 13¢ stamp.

Also enclosed is a small check toward printing of the FBN. Maybe you should charge subscriptions... (Have no fear, Sub. info coming in the next newsletter'.)

Any chance you could bring a complete list of all the women's bookstore you know of? (YEP, give us a couple issues for our address list to stabilize, and we'll do it.)

I almost threw a party when I heard PATIENCE AND SARAH is being reprinted. .. I would have thrown a party if it had been by a feminist press!!!

Does anybody know of another distributor/wholesaler of books besides WIND? (Someplace else in these pages if a list of distributors, but none of them overlap. C) Or does anybody know anybody who could go to Wash. DC or who IS in Wash. DC who could give the women at WIND some basic lessons in writing invoices--packing what you write on the invoice, writing what you pay and taking percentages. Does anybody else have this problem w/ WIND or is it just me? (It isn't just you. At the WIP conf. there were lots of complaints. WIND said they were doing a new bookkeeping system, new paperwork organization, faster shipping, etc. I think that they are really working on the bugs... but still OWT's last shipment had damaged books from inadequate packing. They were insured, but I haven't done anything about it yet... C.)

Would be interested in knowing where bookstores have placed ads that have gotten results. IE is it worth it to put an ad in the local "establishment" daily paper? or even just on Sundays? I Still meet women who come in here and say "I never knew this place was here" after over 1 1/2 years of existence. (That happens at ICI-A woman's Place in Oakland after 5 years, too. C.)

Take care, my firends, In womanstrenght,
Moonyean Woman'splace, Tempe Ariz.
(9 East Fifth St.)

Dear FBN

it was interesting to get your first issue and im particularly looking forward to the 7 page list of lesbian titles --the sweet coming bookstore carries only lesbian books from only women's presses--an experiment in culture and economics --and is in a lesbian-only space. as soon as you know sub. costs, we'll be glad to subscribe and i would like for us to remain on your mailing list. but please know that it offends some of us out here that you give space to bbooks that make male/mutant culture strong simply because they're in spanish.

 .....(Para. on books omitted and included later)
 thanks. and much luck and success.
 the goddess in me embraces the goddesses in you elana dykewoman lesbian gardens bookstore, northampton, mass.

Dear Elana...can you be more specific about how the Spanish titles offended you at lgb? We didn't include the books just because they were in spanish, but because they fit someone's criteria for feminish books or else were books that make woman's lives easier. How to decide what to carry is a continueing issue for us all....this newsletter is a good place for a lot of that discussion to happen....Carol

Dear Carol,

A couple of quick comments (ie feedback) on the bookstore newsletter.

First off, I do think that typing, punctuation, spelling & grammer are important. No, not because it all reflects the person who is writing...but because how a thing is presented makes a difference in how it is interpreted. That's my own particular eccentricity; comes from having been a editor. (Paula of OWT and Jesse at Rising Women said much the same thing --so I'm shooting for a compromise--C.) At any rate, I will volunteer to type the next issue if you like.

Gauuugh! You're using first class postage!? (Checking out the bulk permit idea-C)....Is it at all possible to do some other kind of production besides stencil/mimeo? Photo-offset? Xeroxing even?

So much for the gripes....I am terribly impressed that you got the newsletter out as quickly as you did, especially by yourself (It wasn't by myself--André and I did it together. C.) What with trying to get a bookstore open and all.... whew! ....I am hereby volunteering to do shitwork on the next issue. Yes, truly, if I am needed.

I am three-quarters asleep, which is why this reads like an itemized grocery list, so I shall quit.....Blessings
 Lyndall, Full Moon, San Francisco.

Dear Carol and Andre,

.....Reactions: Wonderful! to receive first issue of FBN-you, we really did make it happen (I admit to having had my doubts in Omaha that the enthusiasm, energy and support would carry over distances and time-glad to be wrong.)

....Womanbooks lived through 3 burglaries and 1 robbery within three weeks one awful 3 weeks in July a year age. We were probably in a better position to absorb it financially but the emotional devastation is the same. Supportive hugs of strength to Andre, Jesse and all the women at Rising Woman Books.

Does anyone know if comprehensive list of women's book-storesexists now or is in process of preparation? (give us 2 months--C.) We participate in a distribution cluster of women publishers and periodicals (including Out and Out Books Violet Press, Light, etc) that was given $5000 by the Coordinating Council of Leterary Magazines to cooperatively distribute their products. In additon to pruchasing mailing lists, organizing poetry readings, possible joint central processing of mail orders ect is the desire and need to contact women's booksotres about their gooks, hence does list exist? Oh, I should probably say it is a very local regional cluster, hopefully evolving into prototype for future others.

....Womanbooks is awaiting their (Firts things First & Feminist Book Mart)response before making decision on whether or not to do a catalog.

We still haven't received those Spanish books from Larousse, Karyn, Womanbooks, NYC

NEWS!

MOTHER RIGHT opened this Halloween, same time as Old Wives Tales, and only a few miles apart! friends who came to the opening from Santa Cruz told us about her! hooray! Address: 530 Seabright Ave., Santa Cruz, Ca, 95062

AN UPDATE...

Rising Woman Books has found a new location---600 Wilson, Santa Rosa, CA 95401. Though there has been an escrow holdup, we hope to open our new store on December 1. The place is pretty big (with separate space for our fledgling library) and very cheap.

We'd like to thank all of you who have written to express your concern and caring...special thanks to Old Wives' Tales and New Words women.

Our collective is expanding from three to eight women of varying commitments. In making this transition we see the use of criticism and self/criticism as vital to our clarity and growth. We are working to increase our understanding of this tool and to apply it to our daily experience.

Love from Andre...for the Rising Woman Books Collective..11/76

Dear Everybody,

Three things to squeeze into this tiny space.

1) We're assuming we'll get cheaper as we get more experience. 2) Our understanding is that this newsletter is for women owned feminist bookstores (and book closets) Are we correct? 3) Please send as much ordering info (discounts, %, minimum order, address) as possible. Also opinions about books!

Thanks and much love,

Andre and Carol

The following is a list of titles that can be placed in the "lesbian section" of a bookstore. Since there is endless controversy over what is a lesbian book and what is not, included here is every title in print that is known to me, and I leave it to each individual bookstore to decide upon the particular politics it wishes to represent. The lesbian material here ranges from the very blatant to the very subtle, from major to minor, from good to bad -- and includes gay, straight, bi-sexual, and female and male authors. Although there are 136 titles here, this compilation is by no means complete; additional titles would be appreciated. Books are listed in alphabetical order by title, following is the author, publisher, and price. Many of the books can and should be cross-shelved (not many women would think to look for a biography of Carson McCullers in the lesbian section.) Those books are marked *, and a second possible section is given in parenthesis.
